Department of Education, Training and Employment

DISCIPLINE AUDIT 5 PAGE PROFILE –PROSTON SS DATE: 13 AUGUST 2014

Principal Leadership

The principal and school leadership team have established and are driving a strong, positive learning culture, grounded in evidence from research and practice. Explicit and clear school-wide expectations have been established with families, teachers, and students. Strong procedures are in place to encourage a school-wide, shared responsibility for student management, and to encourage the development of a culture that promotes learning.

The principal and school leadership team are driving an explicit, detailed and positive approach to managing student behaviour nonsultation with the school communication is natif meetings agenda for managing student behaviour board in terms of high standards and clear expectations of student behaviour and outcomes. This agenda is widely communicated, understoad and figurously actioned. There is as school website and to the school website and to the school website and to the school website and to the school reveluence in the school website and to the school website and the school website and the school website and to the school website and to the school website and the school leaders have developed a positive school school staff members feel web school approach to behaviour and the developed a school school staff members do not feel supported in the school leaders are supportive of bothaviour is substantially implemented to managing student behaviour. School leaders have developed a positive school. School leaders are supportive of bothaviour is systemstically implemented. The school have as a documented is systemstically implemented. The school have as a documented school approach to school- tor doff school approach to school- school appr	Outstanding	High	Medium	Low leadership team are driving an explicit, detailed and positive they wish to see occurs they wish to see occurs to adveloping a school-wide approach. Plans dont appear to have been clearly communicated, widely implementid the of the School behaviour Clan and there are very few school-wide policies, procedures or programs. School taders have observiour that is supported to threal school behaviour that is subtent behaviour that is soften excellence and is systematically implementation of the School behaviour. School leaders have developed a portitive school wide approach to managing student behaviour that is systematically implemented school wide approach to management of student behaviour. School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide approach to developing a student behaviour. The school leaders are supportive of, but remaining of tachers are nerea to follow and the school-wide approach to student behaviour. The school leaders are supportive of, but remaining of tachers are supportive of, but remaining of tachers in relation to managing student behaviour. The school wide approach to d	Outotanding explicit, detailed and positive approach to managing student behaviour and school leaders approach to managing student behaviour the school comunity. This agends is couched in terms of high stadards and clear exploctations of student behaviour and outcomes. This agend a is couched in terms of high stadards and clear exploctations of student behaviour and outcomes. This agends is widely communicated, understood and rigorously actioned. There is school website and to the school haddership team inplementation of the School subder behaviour. School leaders have developed a positive school student behaviour that subder behaviour that subder behaviour the school website and is with a research have is systematic processes and procedures or programs. School leaders have developed a positive school school website and is with a research and is with the school website and is subder behaviour. School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning plan ther school the school website and enarmisme to excellence and is systematic processors the school website and is ensol and proach is consistently and managing student behaviour. The school have ergagement. Website school-website enarmisme to excellence and is syst approach to managing student behaviour consultation with the wish to see occurrent agenda is consultation with to see occurrent agenda is consultation with to see occurrent agenda is concentrent of student behaviour and outcomes. This agenda is widely communicated, understod and rigorously actioned. Intere is a school website and to behaviours the wish behaviour and there are very few school-wide approach. Plans do not appear to have been clearly consistency on the day-to-day approach. Plans do not appear to have been clearly consistency on the tay-to-day work.focussed on the day-to-day with problem student behaviourSchool wide approach communicated, widely communicated, understod and rigorously actioned. Intere are school wide approach to managing student behaviourThere are some whole-school systematical processes and procedures in place for the management of student behaviour Plan and there are very few school-wide policies, procedures or programs. School staff members de attribute to finding ways of managing student behaviour interaction and severe accure and behaviour that is spotent to facuse and to finding ways of managing student behaviour is approach to behaviour.management of student behaviourThere is little or no evidence the whole school wide approach to student behaviour.School leaders have eveloped as of the school.School leaders have to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this to finding ways of managing student behaviour.There is subschool management of student behaviour.School leaders place a high professional learning of all strip professional learning of all strip to chool ways and managing student behaviour.There sin subar to behaviour but limited attends behaviour but limited attends agenda is widely agenda is widely communicated, understood and behaviour and outcomes. This achool trewsletters, on the achool vebsite and to the achool trewsletters, on the achool vebsite and to the achool vebsite and the achool approach to the achool vebsite and the achool approach as the achool ap the school community. This agenda is concerned in terms of high standards and clear expectations of student behaviour and the developing a participation of the developing a school website and to the school newsletters, on the school newsletteres, on the school newsletteres, and non the development of a s agenda is couched in terms of high standards and clear expectations of student behaviour and outcomes. This achool newsletters, on the school rewsletters, on the school wide approach to managing student behaviour, school staff members feel weight supported through the effection grounded in research and is expectations, core values and a comsitter to excellence and is system atcially implements school leaders place a high priority on the ocigan school approach is consistently inplementad. School leaders place a high priority on the ocigan school approach is consistently inplementad. School leaders place a high priority on the ocigan school approach is consistently inplementad. School leaders place a high priority on the ocigan school approach is consistently indexperent to school approach is consistently inplementad. School leaders place a high priority on the ocigan school-wide, self-reflective school approach is consistently indexperent to school approach is consistently indexperent to school approach is consistently inplementad.
high standards and clear expectations of student behaviour and outcomes. This agenda is widely communicated, understood and rigorously actioned. There is a school website and to the school staff meetings to approach to school generation of the School behaviour. There is a whole school approach to behaviour, school leaders have developed a positive school wide approach to managing student behaviour. Teal sochool website and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders place a high profersional learning of all staff and on the development of a school website and skills in engagement. School leaders place a high profersional learning of all staff and on the development of a school website and skills in engagement. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school wide expectations of student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with school wide expectations of student behaviour management.	3 expectations of student behaviour rand outcomes. This agenda is widely communicated, understood and ingroupsily actioned. There is a strong and optimistic communicated is widely denoised in the school communicated widely work. There are some whole-school systematic processes and processes and communicated significantly on the school-wide paproach to managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to barve implementation of the School behaviour Plan and there are wry few school-wide policies, procedures or programs. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to school- wide approach to school- sude of the space and the school- behaviour Plan. School staff members de twelf sudent behaviour flan spote this positive school- wide approach to school- school leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to school- school leaders are committed to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this reflected in an eagernees to earn from research and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders place a high profersional learning of all staff and on the development of school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student behaviour. The school has a documented rofessional learning of all staff and on the development of school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student behaviour. The school has a documented rofessional learning of student behaviour management.				behaviour.
behaviour and outcomes. This agenda is widely communicated, understood and rigorously actioned. There is a strong and optimistic communicated, understood and rigorously actioned. There is a strong and optimistic communicated, understood and roccedures in place for the managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour that is sudent behaviour that is subdent behaviour that is subtariational experience and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school school laporach to subdent behaviour. School leaders place a high priority on the en-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school approach to managing subdent behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school approach to managing behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school cordinated approach to managing behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school cordinated approach to managing behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school cordinated approach to managing behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school cordinated approach to managing behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school cordinated approach to managing behaviour. There is little sense of a whole- school cordinated appro	0 agenda is widely communicated, understood and ingrously actioned. There is a strong and optimistic commitment by all staff to the school-wide approach to managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to staff members learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to staff members learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to staff members learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to smanaging student behaviour. There is a whole school agross all areas of the school. Behaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour is dealt with promptly. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to smanaging student behaviour. There is a whole school agross all areas of the school. School leaders place a high professional learning of all staff and on the development. School leaders take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school-wide, school approach is school- school approach is development of sudent behaviour. The school has a document roff the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour managing student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school-wide, school-approach is of student behaviour managing student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for changes in helaviour management. The school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student behaviour management school-bardes in the is in the is not school approach is of student behaviour this is not reflected in and managing student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.			5 communicated, understood and rigorously actioned. There is a storng and optimistic commitment by all staff to the school-wide approach to managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour that is grounded in research and is explocted to managing student behaviour that is grounded in research and is explorted in the school systematically implementation is systematically implemented and on the development of a school kiele approach to explorted in the school approach to behaviour student behaviour, management of subart to behaviour and on the development of a school leaders place a high priority on the active school staff members leal well systematically implementation and the school- wide approach to school- school leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school wide approach is consistentiff eachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour freeduced on student engagement. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour freeduced on student behaviour Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.
rigorously actioned. There is a some whole-school systematic processes and procedures in place for the managing student behaviour that is grounded in research and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders place a high professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school leaders place a high professional learning of all school agroeach to school agroeach to school agroeach to incluses and ported through the state of the school leaders have developed and high segment of subert areas of the school. School leaders place a high professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school agroeach to is subtart zones at student behaviour. School leaders place a high professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school agroeach is consistently and the development of a school agroeach is consistently and the development of a school agroeach is consistently and portacit nor the school has a documented professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school agroeach is consistently and the development of a school agroeach is consistently across the whole school agroeach to managing student behaviour. Simplementation of the school has a documented professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school has a documented protech to managing student behaviour. Simplementation of the school has a documented protech to managing student behaviour. Simplementation of the school has a documented protech to managing student behaviour. Simplementation of the school has a documented protech to managing student behaviour. Simplementation of the school has a documented protech to managing student behaviour. Simplementation of student behaviour management. Behaviour this is no treflected in an agreement of a student behaviour. Simplementation of student behaviour. Simplementation of student behaviour. Simplementation of the school has a documented protech to managing student behaviour. Simplementation of the school wide expectation		school community. strong and optimistic commitment by all staff to the school-wide approach to managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- developed a positive school- developed a positive school- behaviour that is grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and acomstiment to excellence and is systematic processes and procedures on place for the management of student behaviour that is grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is systematic processes at the grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is systematic processes and commitment to excellence and is systematic processes and procedures on place of the across all areas of the school- wide expectations of student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour. The school has acourse to develop their commitment to the school-wide expectations of student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.		There are some whole-school commitment by all staff to the school-wide approach to managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning.recedures in place for the management of student behaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour behaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour management to behaviour focus on quality learning.The school staff members do not feel supported in the management of sudent behaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour management, however, this is yet to be implemented consistently across the whole school leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school wide gargement.recodures in place for the management of student behaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour is dealt with promptly.School staff members do not feel supported in the management of student behaviourSchool leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to schoels and in grounded in research and is evactations, core values and a commitment to excellence and priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school wide gargement.The school has a documented to management hore is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour.There is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing student behaviour.There is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviourThere is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour.There is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviourwith			leachers day-lo-day work. school-wide approach to managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning.management of student behaviour that ensures a strong focus on quality learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- Behaviour Planimplementing the School Behaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour is dealt with promptly.feel supported in the management of student behaviourSchool leaders have developed a positive school- developed a positive school- grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and across all areas of the school.School leaders are committed to finding ways of managing school leaders place a high profersional learning of all staff and on the development of a school approach is consistently and on the development of a culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented roofessional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-refictive culture focused on student behaviourThe school has a documented roofessional learning glan that includes arrangements for eachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviourThe school has a documented roofessional learning glan that includes arrangements for eachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide exportations of student behaviourMost teachers take responsibility for the school-wide expectations of student behaviourMost teachers take responsibility for the school-wide exportation and managing student behaviourMost teachers take responsibility for the school-wide		procedures in place for the	The school leadership team is managing student behaviour and the development of a culture that enhances learning. Culture that enhances learning. School laders have developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour PlanBehaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour is dealt with prompty.management of issues associated with student behaviour.School laders have developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour relanBehaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour approach to behaviour management of student behaviour PlanThere is a whole school approach to behaviour management of student behaviour and this is reflected in an eagemest to school leaders are supportive of, but nor other schools. The whole school leaders are supportive of, but nor other schools. The whole school leaders are supportive of, but not generally involved in the day-to-day practice and learning of tachers in relation.Behaviour Plan by ensuring that disruptive behaviour and on the developmented and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student professional learning of all staff and on the development.Behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.There is little or no evidence that a research based whole school approach to behaviour.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviourDenaming of all staff and managing student behaviourAlthough there is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to the school-wide approach to the school-wide approach to the school-wide expectations of student behavio and the development of a culture that enhances learning.focus on quality learning. School staff members feel well ported through the effective mplementation of the School Behaviour Plan.that disruptive behaviour is dealt with promptly.associated with student behaviour.School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour that is grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school.School leaders are committed to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this is reflected in an eagements to research and is evidence-based. This approach to school approach exists to the management to excellence and international experience and from other schools. The whole school leaders are supportive of, but noter schools approach is consistently and on the development of a school leaders are supportive of a school leaders are supportive of, but noticity of the charges in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour.that disruptive behaviour is dealt with promptly.associated with student behaviour.Teachers take responsibility for the charges in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviourfocus angement, however, this is not develop theil knowledge and skills in ensuing student engagement, host teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of studentfocus angement develop theil knowledge and skills in ensuing student engagement, host teachers take responsibility for culture that enhances learning. School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour Hat is grounded in research and is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school.School leaders are committed to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this is is systematically implemented across all areas of the school.dealt with promptly.behaviour There is a whole school approach to behaviour management, however, this is not based on research and is school leaders are sommitted to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this is is systematically implemented across all areas of the school.School leaders are committed to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this is school approach is consistently implemented.behaviour the principal and other school leaders are supportive of, but not generally involved in the day-to-day practice and learning of teachers in relation to managing student behaviour.behaviour.There is little or no evidence that a research based whole school approach to the whole school.School leaders place a high priority on the or-going professional learning of all staffThe school has a documented to managing student behaviour.There is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.Most teachers take responsibility for the school-wide approach to student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student<
School leaders have developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour that is grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student behaviour. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.	•			behaviour.
developed a positive school- wide approach to managing student behaviour that is grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school.Behaviour Plan.approach to behaviour management, however, this is not based on research and is yet to be implemented consistently across the whole school.that a research based whole school approach exists to the management of student behaviour.School leaders place a high priority on the on-going rofessional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented to managing student behaviour to management for to management and managing student behaviour management is is onsistently and on the development of a school leaders stafe responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Behaviour Plan.that a research based whole school approach to behaviour management of student behaviour.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Behaviour Plan.that a research based whole school approach is school approach is school approach is school approach is school.Most teachers take required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.School leaders area grows in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management iMost teachers take resonal change on the part o	5	supported through the effective wide approach to managing student behaviour that is grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and a is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders are committed is built around high expectations, core values and a is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders are committed international experience and from other schools. The whole school approach is consistently implemented. The school has a documented professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school student engagement. The school has a documented professional learning of all staff and on the development outper school student engagement. The school has a documented professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement. The school has a documented professional learning of all staff neudes arrangements for teachers to develop their nowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing student engagement behaviour. Most teachers take required to align with school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of stu	School leaders have	implementation of the School	There is a whole school	There is little or no evidence student behaviour that is grounded in research and is evalence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school.School leaders are committed to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this is reflected in an eagerness to eam from research evidence, international experience and from other schools. The whole school approach is consistently implemented.not based on research and is yet to be implemented consistently across the whole school approach to student behaviour. Significant inconsistently across the whole school approach to student behaviour.management of student behaviour. Significant inconsistently across the whole school approach to student behaviour.School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangement sfor teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.not based on research and is yet to be implemented consistently across the whole school.management of student behaviour.Most teachers take required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Nost teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Nost teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student <br< td=""><td></td><td>Behaviour Plan.</td><td>approach to behaviour</td><td>that a research based whole</td></br<>		Behaviour Plan.	approach to behaviour	that a research based whole grounded in research and is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school.to finding ways of managing student behaviour, and this is reflected in an eagements to earn from research evidence, international experience and from other schools. The whole school approach is consistently across all areas of the school.yet to be implemented consistently across the whole school.behaviour. Significant inconsistentical school.School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Vest teachers take responsibility for the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for the school-wide with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Vest teachers take responsibility for the school-wide with the school-wide expectations of studentMost teachers take responsibility for their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Vest teachers take responsibility for the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of studentSchool leaders place align teachers take responsibi			management, however, this is evidence-based. This approach is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management. Sudent behaviour, and this is reflected in an eageness to reflected in an eageness to reflected in an eageness to reflected in an eageness to responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student Most teachers take responsibility for the change on student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Solution to change on the part of staff. Consistently across the whole school. The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Solution to chool-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Solution to chool-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Solution to chool-wide expectations of student behaviour management. is built around high expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders place a high professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. 	• expectations, core values and a commitment to excellence and is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. International experience and stool approach is consistently implemented. International experience and school approach is consistently implemented. The principal and other school leaders are supportive of, but not generally involved in the day-to-day practice and learning of teachers in relation to managing student behaviour. The school has a documented orofessional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.			- commitment to excellence and is systematically implementedInternational experience and from other schools. The whole school approach is consistently implemented.The principal and other school leaders are supportive of, but not generally involved in the day-to-day practice and learning of teachers in relation to managing student behaviour.behaviour.School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.The principal and other school leaders are supportive of, but not generally involved in the adars are expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.The school-wide school-wide approach to managing school-wide expec	•		school. is systematically implemented across all areas of the school. School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management. Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.
across all areas of the school.school approach is consistently implemented.not generally involved in the day-to-day practice and learning of teachers in relation to managing student behaviour.There is little sense of a whole- school coordinated approach to professional learning in relation to managing student behaviour.The school has a documented professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers to develop their knowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing student behaviourAlthough there is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.There is little sense of a whole- school coordinated approach to professional learning in relation to managing behaviour.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of studen				behaviour.
School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.Implemented.day-to-day practice and learning of teachers in relation to managing student behaviour.school coordinated approach to professional learning in relation to managing student behaviour.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management and manage				There is little capes of a whole
School leaders place a high priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers to develop their knowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing student engagement ensponsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .learning of teachers in relation to managing student behaviour.professional learning in relation to managing student behaviour.Most teachers take responsibility for with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their	across all areas of the school.
priority on the on-going professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.The school has a documented professional learning plan that includes arrangements for teachers to develop their knowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing studentto managing student behaviour.to managing student behaviour.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .	School leaders place a high	implemented.
professional learning of all staff and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.professional learning plan that includes arrangements for knowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing studentAlthough there is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .		The school has a documented and on the development of a school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.includes arrangements for teachers to develop their knowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing student behaviour.Although there is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management.Although there is an expressed commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for staff.			to managing student behaviour.	to managing student behaviour.
school-wide, self-reflective culture focused on student engagement.teachers to develop their knowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing student behaviour.commitment to the school-wide approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .How the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .			Although there is an expressed culture focused on student engagement.knowledge and skills in ensuring student engagement and managing student behaviour.approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .approach to managing behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff. engagement.ensuring student engagement and managing studentbehaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.Teachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of student behaviour management.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .behaviour this is not reflected in high levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff. and managing studenthigh levels of enthusiasm forTeachers take responsibility for the changes in their practices required to align with school- wide expectations of studenthigh levels of enthusiasm for personal change on the part of staff.Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .Most teachers take responsibility for changes in their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management . the changes in their practices staff. required to align with school- Most teachers take wide expectations of student responsibility for changes in behaviour management. their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management . behaviour management .	5 5		high levels of enthusiasm for required to align with school- Most teachers take wide expectations of student responsibility for changes in behaviour management. their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. behaviour management	Teachers take responsibility for	behaviour.	personal change on the part of wide expectations of student responsibility for changes in behaviour management. their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management . behaviour management .			staff.
behaviour management. their practices required to align with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management. with the school-wide expectations of student behaviour management .
expectations of student behaviour management .	behaviour management.
behaviour management . penaviour management.

DISCIPLINE AUDIT 5 PAGE PROFILE –PROSTON SS DATE: 13 AUGUST 2014

Parent and Community Engagement

The school actively seeks ways to enhance student learning, wellbeing and discipline by partnering with parents and families, other education and training institutions, and where appropriate local businesses and community organisations. Parents and families are recognised as integral members of the school community and partners in their children's education. Partnerships are strategically established to address identified student needs and by providing access to experiences, support and intellectual and/or physical resources available within and beyond the school. Procedures are in place to ensure effective communications and to monitor and evaluate the intended impacts of the school's partnerships.

Department of Education, Training and Employment

DISCIPLINE AUDIT 5 PAGE PROFILE –PROSTON SS DATE: 13 AUGUST 2014

Data Informed Decision-Making

A high priority is given to school wide analysis and discussion of systematically collected data on student behaviour. Data analyses consider the overall picture of school student behaviour as well as the behaviour of particular cohorts of students and individual students. Data is used to evaluate the success of policies, procedures and programs to plan and enact a continuous improvement process. Data is used to develop and adjust the overall school behaviour management procedures and policies to assist leaders in the creation of a safe, supportive and disciplined learning environment.

Outstanding	High	Medium	Low
The principal and other school leaders clearly articulate their belief that reliable data on student behaviour and achievement are crucial to achieving a safe, supportive and disciplined learning environment as reflected by school data relevant to the specific school community. School leaders systematically gather and interrogate attendance, achievement and behaviour data, including positive and inappropriate behaviour, to develop behaviour plans which meet the differentiated needs of cohorts and individual students. A systematic process, led by a school leader, involving the regular analysis of student behaviour and achievement data at student and systems level, is used to evaluate the implementation and effectiveness of the school's behaviour plan and all interventions to inform decision making. The data is used to stimulate discussion on the effectiveness of behaviour management strategies.	There is evidence that the principal and other school leaders view reliable and timely student behaviour data as essential to the development of a school-wide behaviour plan. The school has developed a documented school data plan which includes data about positive and inappropriate student behaviour, regularly entered in OneSchool, using agreed procedures and protocols. The school can illustrate through case studies and meeting minutes how behaviour data has been used to evaluate the effectiveness of the school's behaviour plan and take appropriate action. There are examples of how the data has been used to inform decision making about individual, group and school- wide responses to managing student behaviour and interventions.	There is evidence that school leaders pay attention to behaviour data. Some staff members gather and use data to develop their behaviour management strategies but there are no whole of school processes for using data to achieve improved student behaviour. An ad hoc approach exists to using data in reviewing the effectiveness of the school's behaviour plan and interventions. School behaviour data is presented at meetings for the information of staff and parents but not as a platform to reflect on the effectiveness of approaches to managing student behaviour.	There is very little evidence of school leaders' practical use of student behaviour data. The school is unable to demonstrate how data has been used to analyse and discuss student behaviour and strategies for improvement and interventions. There has been little use of data in discussing the effectiveness of the school's behaviour plan.

DISCIPLINE AUDIT 5 PAGE PROFILE –PROSTON SS DATE: 13 AUGUST 2014

Clear Consistent Expectations for Behaviour (this include consequences)

The school works to maintain a learning environment that is safe, respectful, tolerant, inclusive and promotes engagement. The school has a coherent plan outlining positive school-wide expectations and appropriate behaviours. These expectations and behaviours are clearly defined, widely communicated, embedded in practice and can be evidenced in the behaviour of students. Strong processes and procedures are in place to ensure a safe, supportive and disciplined learning environment and to encourage the development of a culture of continuous professional learning that includes classroom management practices

Outstanding	High	Medium	Low
The school has a small number of positively stated school-wide expectations and appropriate behaviours that are clearly defined and embedded in practice. These expectations are highly visible throughout the school environment and are continually communicated in school documentation, newsletters, meetings, assemblies and are evident in the behaviour of the students. All teaching staff members are regularly engaged in professional development, including at initial induction, to ensure behaviour processes are implemented consistently across the school. The school has developed a continuum of proactive, evidence based interventions to respond effectively to inappropriate student behaviour, extending from the least intrusive (corrective feedback) to the most intrusive (referral to the office) and this continuum is consistently applied by all staff as measured by data regularly reviewed by the school team.	The school has developed a set of positively stated school-wide behaviour expectations. The school expectations are visible throughout the school environment and are referred to regularly in a variety of ways and are evident in the behaviour of most students. Teaching staff of the school are engaged in professional development, to ensure behaviour processes are implemented consistently across the school. The school has developed a continuum of evidence based strategies to manage student behaviour and this is consistently applied by all staff.	Some work has been done on defining what the school behaviour expectations look like for students, with some evidence of formal documentation. There is some evidence that the school uses preventative and positive approaches to managing student behaviour. Although the school has clear expectations for behaviour, these are not highly visible throughout the school and are not evident in the behaviour of a significant number of students. An ad-hoc approach exists to training staff to ensure consistency of practice. All consequences directly align with the legislative requirements and departmental policies and procedures and are applied fairly and consistently.	There is limited evidence that the school has developed or documented any school-wide behaviour expectations. The behaviour of many students indicates that the school has inadequately communicated behavioural expectations. Staff members have received little or no training in consistent approaches to managing behaviour. Behavioural problems and disengagement are issues for a significant proportion of students. There is an overreliance on suspensions and exclusions.

DISCIPLINE AUDIT 5 PAGE PROFILE –PROSTON SS DATE: 13 AUGUST 2014

Explicit Teaching of Appropriate Behaviour to All Students

The Principal and other school leaders recognise that a safe, supportive and disciplined learning environment is a key to improving student learning throughout the school. They take a strong leadership role in encouraging the use of research-based classroom management practices in all classrooms to ensure that every student is engaged, challenged and learning successfully. All teachers understand and engage in the explicit teaching of desired behaviours.

Outstanding	High	Medium	Low
The principal and other school leaders have accepted personal responsibility for ensuring a safe supportive and disciplined learning environment. They demonstrate a strong conviction that student engagement is a key to improved student learning and have clear and well-known positions on the kind of evidenced-based behaviour support strategies and interventions they wish to see occurring. Clarity about how students are expected to behave, high expectations of every student's behaviour, explicit teaching of expected behaviours, individualised behaviour support and timely feedback to guide student behaviour support and timely feedback to guide student behaviour management. The school leadership team actively promotes the use of differentiated behaviour management strategies for ensuring that every student behaves appropriately. School leaders have given a very high priority to understanding and addressing the behaviour meeds of all students. A range of initiatives are implemented for individuals and groups. Differentiated behaviour management strategies are a feature of every teacher's practice.	School leaders are committed to ensuring a safe, supportive and disciplined learning environment and expect team leaders and teachers to identify ways of doing this. However, the principal and other school leaders may not themselves have clear positions on the kinds of evidence based behaviour support strategies and interventions they wish to see occurring across the school. Clarity about how students are expected to behave, expectations of student behaviour, explicit teaching of expected behaviours, individualised behaviour support and feedback to guide student behaviour are key elements of the school's push for effective behaviour management. School leaders explicitly encourage teachers to tailor their behaviour management strategies to student needs. Interventions occur in response to student needs, backgrounds and experiences.	School leaders are explicit about their desire to see a safe, supportive and disciplined learning environment, but are less clear about what this may look like. They do not appear to be driving a strong teaching and learning agenda across the school. There is some clarity about how students are expected to behave but explicit teaching of expected behaviours is inconsistent and generally occurs only in the context of concerns about a student's behaviour. Some use is made of differentiated behaviour management strategies but in most cases the same behaviour management strategies are applied to all students. It is recognised throughout the school that some students require individualised behaviour management and plans have been developed for those students.	School leaders do not appear to have strong views on the characteristics of a safe, supportive and disciplined learning environment. There is little evidence that they are driving an agenda to change or enhance teaching and learning practices across the school leaders spend very little time discussing, teaching or modelling behaviour management strategies. Behaviour management appears to be viewed solely as the responsibility of teachers. School leaders do not place a high priority on teachers identifying and addressing individual learning needs, and are more focused on enforcing a set of common behaviour expectations for all students.

